Business -This meeting was scheduled at the October 27, 2020 meeting to discuss the return to school schedule after the winter vacation.

There was a lot of discussion regarding the pros and cons of having students to return to in class studies in January, February, or March. There was discussion from both sides of the importance of students getting the social interaction but also there is still too much COVID in Robeson County to put students and teachers at risk.

Kristen Stone the principal stated that she did not feel comfortable with having students or teachers to return to the building for in class instruction at this time. Her fear was that her teachers or her student may get the disease and bring it to school or take it home. She states, "I could not live with myself if we bring teachers and students back into the building and some one dies from the disease."

Motion was made by Gwendolyn Roberts-Payne that the students do not return to in class instruction until after the disease numbers have dropped in Robeson County. The board should consider sending the students back when the county and state is no longer in the red zone.

Motion Seconded by-Paru Patel
